

The Universe answers exactly to our beliefs, whatever they are

The last two weeks, I had long and fascinating conversations with a friend that came to visit me. It is a person well connected to her own guidance. I was able to have the experience of her capacities and of her teachings.

However in her memories, the concept of humanity's manipulation by a belligerent elite is absent. We had therefore spent long hours trying to solve this mystery. We had ventured three hypothesis :

- either her “memories” probably came from another temporal line than mine,
- either the Lemurian or proto-Sumerian temporal lines were not present in her cellular memories,
- either this temporal line has generated so much violence that these cellular memories have embedded or crystallised themselves in order for her not to suffer from them.

From my friend's departure, my right eye became painful and I suffered from eyelid inflammation. The decoding of this “illness” when I discovered its origin, made me horribly suffer because it brought me back to memories linked to a betrayal that made me think that humanity was only manipulated by belligerent beings, whereas it is not necessarily the case. It is only “manipulated” by two forces for its experience and its evolution.

The next day, after a night a bit troubled, I questioned my Angel and he repeats to me what my friend was telling me :

- The Universe answers exactly to your beliefs whatever they are. Do you know where your beliefs come from ? They come from your past, not only from your current incarnation, but from all the temporal lines on which your soul is incarnated.
  - Really this concept of temporal lines becomes a trend, everybody talks about it !
  - Exactly. It is time to understand what a temporal line represents. In your 3rd density, this corresponds to a cycle of life or an incarnation path that starts from birth and ends up in death. However it is not only this and I will give you the explanation further on.
- In your mind pattern, there exists a past : your childhood, your teenage years, school, your studies, your job, your family, your children... These periods of your life are so to speak present in your mind in the form of memories, as they belong to the past.

This also implies that these recalls are not only engraved in your memory, but also in your different energy bodies. Sometimes even until into your physical body in the form of scars or residual pains. This is the case for every incarnated person.

Depending on the intensity and the series of lived emotions, ego constructs and programmes itself gradually through the experiences during its life slices that have forged your current personality. However, at every moment on this path of life, even if you can not remember it, you had to make choices. Depending on the cases, these choices were dictated by a desire, a need, an emotion, by necessity, by challenge or fear. Nevertheless at each moment, these choices were defined according to a past experience already engraved in your memory, coming from your current life line or may be also coming from “previous” lives.

These lives that you interpret like belonging to the past, are tangible on temporal lines or parallel space-times, and can influence your subconscious in your current life. Therefore some strong events that realise themselves in parallel space-times can drill through your subconscious to reach until your consciousness.

Therefore in your everyday life, it becomes possible that you sometimes act in a compulsive or reactive way, maybe by projecting in the future some things to do or not to do, because in your previous experiences, you had already realised the same type of experiences with more or less joy. In plain language, you projected yourself in the future according to the experiences of your past.

Nevertheless, for the people having started this process of consciousness modification, the process of life intrinsically restrains the possibility of making projects in a very reduced space-time. Especially as these projects are considered to be more or less long term. From this fact, the meaning of life can quickly become uncomfortable and even obsolete, for all of those who still think of being able to project their past experiences in the future.

- Is it for this reason that I do not manage to plan my activities or meetings, even in a close future ?
- Obviously, in your consciousness the chronology of time has not got the same repercussion since you have started to understand how to become your future’s creator ! However, as the chronology of time affects you less and less, you can already notice in your life that magic has more and more of an effect ! This magic can only be born in the full consciousness of the present moment. It is the moment where the illusion of the past vanishes itself simultaneously with its projection in the future, and opens the path to all the possibilities in your creation.

The Universe answers exactly to your beliefs, but as your old beliefs crumble themselves one after the other through the liberation of your cellular memories in the “here” and the “now”, your old universe of illusions, which I remind you was also your creation, henceforth does not answer to you anymore. As a consequence, liberating ourselves from the influence of other temporal lines of incarnation, makes it possible to liberate us from the illusion created by the mind-ego, to abandon ourselves to intuition, sense, heart’s intelligence.

Therefore today, you are sitting in front of the computer to write what I am inspiring you. Me, your Angel, this consciousness that inspires you, I sail simultaneously on other temporal lines of existence, as I dictate to you this text by using very often a knowledge that does not belong to your humanity. Did you know this morning, what you were going to write ?

- Well no ! As usual I wanted to write, but I had no idea of what these lines would hold.
- Your subconscious him knew it ! And why do you write this text precisely this morning and not yesterday or tomorrow ?
- Well, I do not really know, I felt that I needed to write !
- Think !
- Well... I had time !
- Exactly ! You were available ! More precisely you made yourself available. As by letting go of the control on the hours, you took the decision to make yourself available by trusting your sense, and not to the “I want/I do not want, I need, it has to...”. In clear language, you opened a space in the time-space.

What I am trying to make you understand, is that at every moment, you can make a decision. If this decision spurts out from an impetus of the heart, it inevitably comes from your intuitive consciousness and not from the ego's beliefs. By becoming aware of this type of impetus, that means the intelligence of the heart, you become master of your time and of your own creation !

- Wouaouh !...

I again sense a presence, a “vibration from another time”, that whirls around me. Well yes, it is my Amasutum friend who, on other plans, is part of the life planners.

She tells me :

- Truth exists nowhere, because it is everywhere.
- Why do you tell me this ?
- The worldwide plot of the Annunakis is engraved in the beliefs of the human being on its current temporal line. That does not mean that this plot does not exist, but it is about a programme already implanted in the akashic memories of these people by their own creators, for the needs of their own evolution and by expansion, for the needs of the one of humanity.

I am an Amasutum reptilian of the Kadistu tribe. This means that I am a descendent and sister of An, the one that the monotheistic religions have mistaken with God. Even as a cloned being, I am the feminine polarity of the androgynous primordial being, and I represent an expression from the source, just like every being evolving in this universe.

From this fact, I represent the incarnated feminine polarity to one of the “illusion of the couple's” ends, in further of the masculine polarity, represented in our own space-time, by the Gina'Abul-Annunaki's male energy.

In your dimension, the male-female couple is the perfect representation under its fractal form, of this first illusion of separation.

Take a piece of string, even if you cut one end, you will always have left a piece of string. The couple's illusion, resides in the fact that the two partners have forgotten that they are one and only same being, one and only energy, the same string. This amnesia model concerning the existence of a complementary and balancing polarity, marks the start of all principles of duality.

The first shock at the moment of the incarnation as a human being, is to become amnesiac of its additional, and therefore of who you are as a realised Being.

- So how is the illusion of good and evil made ?
- You remembered yourself at the moment of the creation of your first 3rd density's physical body (the Nungal). Your mission was and is still, of participating in the liberation of humanity's Akasha, like many other incarnated beings do in this end of time.

To do this, each realised soul that incarnates itself specifically in this end of time, only through the emotional shock that produces itself at the moment of the uterus' exit of its mother, creates itself an individual karma embryo when it wakes up in this world of illusions of 3rd density.

Before his dive in whatever temporal line, this soul under its form of “being of light-information” represents a being of quantum consciousness, because it does not have a physical form, so no brain. The quantum consciousness is thereafter a state of non-thinking as it does not focus the particles of energy-creativity on a defined temporal line. This state of united being is in harmony with all of the dimensions.

Therefore, all along the successive cycles of incarnation, at the moment of his dive in a physical world of 3rd density, the luminous being composed of conscious energy/information creates himself at the moment of his first inhale, a very strong emotional experience that cuts him ineluctably of his quantum consciousness. This first emotional experience then fixes itself in his physical and/or etheric bodies under the form of a memory/vibration.

Then each next emotional experience then adds itself up to the first to evolve in a sort of programme that the soul will then have the possibility of resolving all along its incarnations. However, some experiences have been very difficult to live on some temporal lines, especially at the moment of the incarnation of the human’s consciousness in homo-sapiens’ bodies and therefore of the decrease of the human multidimensional consciousness through the suppression in his DNA of some programmes by the creators and the planners.

It must be known that your Gina’Abul creators through wars and merciless power struggles were already preying to the illusion of duality in their own dimension and density. To help these people to liberate themselves of their own karmic cycle, luminous beings, emissaries of the source have incarnated themselves in their lineage. They were cloned beings from the DNA of their creators, and were given by the Kadistus (the geneticist priestess) this particle called Kiristi. This particular DNA is present in some individuals that represent today this redeemer lineage incarnated amongst humanity and that the patriarchal power has always hunted and tried to exclude.

The Kiristos (the christs) are therefore individuals that have accepted to reincarnate themselves in a human form and who again, have succeeded in connecting themselves again to their ascending and multidimensional consciousness.

This also implies that some amongst you, represent the ascending consciousness of the Annunaki, Gina’Abul, Amasutum and other creators. In reality, many amongst you are the descendents of these beings of whom you were so afraid of. But you had forgotten that you were them, as you were dressed up for too long under a human costume.

Therefore, all the carriers of truth incarnated currently, work in order to liberate themselves of their own illusion’s memories/programmes. And by exponential resonance effect, they help in liberating their karmic memories all of those who are ready and accept to do it just like you.

They are accompanied in this by the elementary beings that you call goblins, ondins, elves, fairies, dragons who “incarnate” the energy of the Earth consciousness, that you call Gaïa. These beings are also a fragment of energy-consciousness that, like you, have a densified physical body in parallel worlds being part of the “matter” of the Earth, also called crystalline consciousness of the Earth.

From this fact, the elementals are “other yourselves” in different space-times. They are the “projected reproduction in the matter” of other fractals of the source, in other words of your own consciousness and therefore of your physical aspect on these other temporal lines. You, as a human consciousness, are also these beings. They represent also for some, your astral identity. Your vibratory elevation, your consciousness opening, the acceptance of a new vision of your creation, makes it possible to “see” you as an individual or as a community, in new realities (faces in the stones, trees, water, etc).

Understand well ! Your subconscious transmits to your brain an image that you can interpret. This first one connects you to all of your memories-programmes on the temporal lines where your soul experiences a form of life.

The faces that appear to you in nature or in other places sometimes, are often the indicators of a liberation-healing process of your akashic memories linked to other dimensions.

The entire universe contributes to your healing then to your awakening. The planets, the sun, the Mother-Earth, the trees, the crystals, water, animals, your friends, your neighbours, your stellar and intraterrestrial brothers... , absolutely everyone participates in your evolution. As each and one of you, is part of the all, you are the all.

- Can you talk to me about the stellar events coming ?

- The Universe answers exactly to your beliefs, whatever they are. I remind you of it, because this still stays true as long as the collective psyche of humanity believes it. There exists indeed possibilities on your temporal line of a disruption of the terrestrial magnetic field by celestial bodies, comets, asteroids... However, as our temporal line sticks out of the one of your present incarnation, I know so to speak the most strong probabilities of your future. But I am only authorised to reveal to you that the events that are currently happening in the cosmos, producing themselves for the biggest good of humanity, and that the liberation that you are all waiting for, exists beyond these events.

The way of how will take place the future terrestrial events are unknown to us, as they depend on the decision of each human being, then of the collective to whom he belongs to. According to the locations and to the “qualities” of the beliefs which the human’s psyche projects in the mesh of the Earth’s consciousness, some predictions will be able to happen or otherwise will not realise themselves.

This represents more than seven billions of possibilities at every moment, as every human incarnated currently, creates his own reality in the same space-time of the present moment.

So to end this communication with you today, because I feel you are tired, I would simply tell you : have faith in yourself !

Have faith in yourselves, listen to your intuition and become masters again of time and of your creation.

I am you, you are me.
